Introducing SimTecT 2012

Simulation – Integrated Solutions

As organisations strive for more effective and agile outputs, their simulation activities need to be tightly integrated with their business models and processes.

Are the training simulator capabilities and scenarios tailored as platforms and practices change or incidents occur? How quickly can a specific mission be rehearsed? Does an evaluation or research program lead to change? Does the system react to new workforce characteristics?

Does the blended learning system deliver the right training to users on the move, when they need it? Continuous learning, or occasional? Can people train while they work? Is the learning system centralized or distributed?

Are decision support simulations part of the standard business planning system? Are models of new infrastructure or processes used for whole-of-life analysis?

Is the simulation system architecture integrated with the organisation's ITC infrastructure?

Is the governance of the simulation environment consistent with the organisation's management objectives, structures, and processes?

Our theme for SimTecT 2012 explores the benefits that simulation can deliver to an organisation if the training, design or analysis systems are fully incorporated into an organisation's structure and processes.

We look forward to assisting you promote your business or research at SimTecT 2012.

Deanna Hutchinson
Convenor

Ten Reasons to Exhibit at SimTecT 2012

- Meet new buyers and develop a quality database.
- Develop a personal and direct relationship with your clients.

- Get immediate feedback on your product.

Why Trade Shows Work

72% of all visitors intend to make a purchase either at the trade show or in the near future.

Exhibitions are effective because...

- 54% of visitors come specifically to see new products and services.
- 48% come for information.
- 40% come to keep updated with technology.
- 15% come to make new business contacts.
